Glenn E. Coolidge is dead. We believe that he was a victim of the ruthless campaign system we countenance in this country, whose debilitating toll of the energies, resources, and occasionally of the lives, of men who aspire, for whatever reason, to public office, is literally appalling.

Such a reward is hardly to be envied. And yet, people think they are rewarded. We say to ourselves that the prestige, the power and the assumedly prepossessing salaries should make anybody envious and ambitious. What does that really say, though, for our regard for the man who seeks or sustains public office? It is tinged with abhorrent contempt and a brutal disdain. For these men, with all of their ambitions, their prejudices and their varying degrees of egotism, none the less hold themselves forth for the people to choose them as servants. And the grounds upon which supposedly we choose are noble and compassionate.

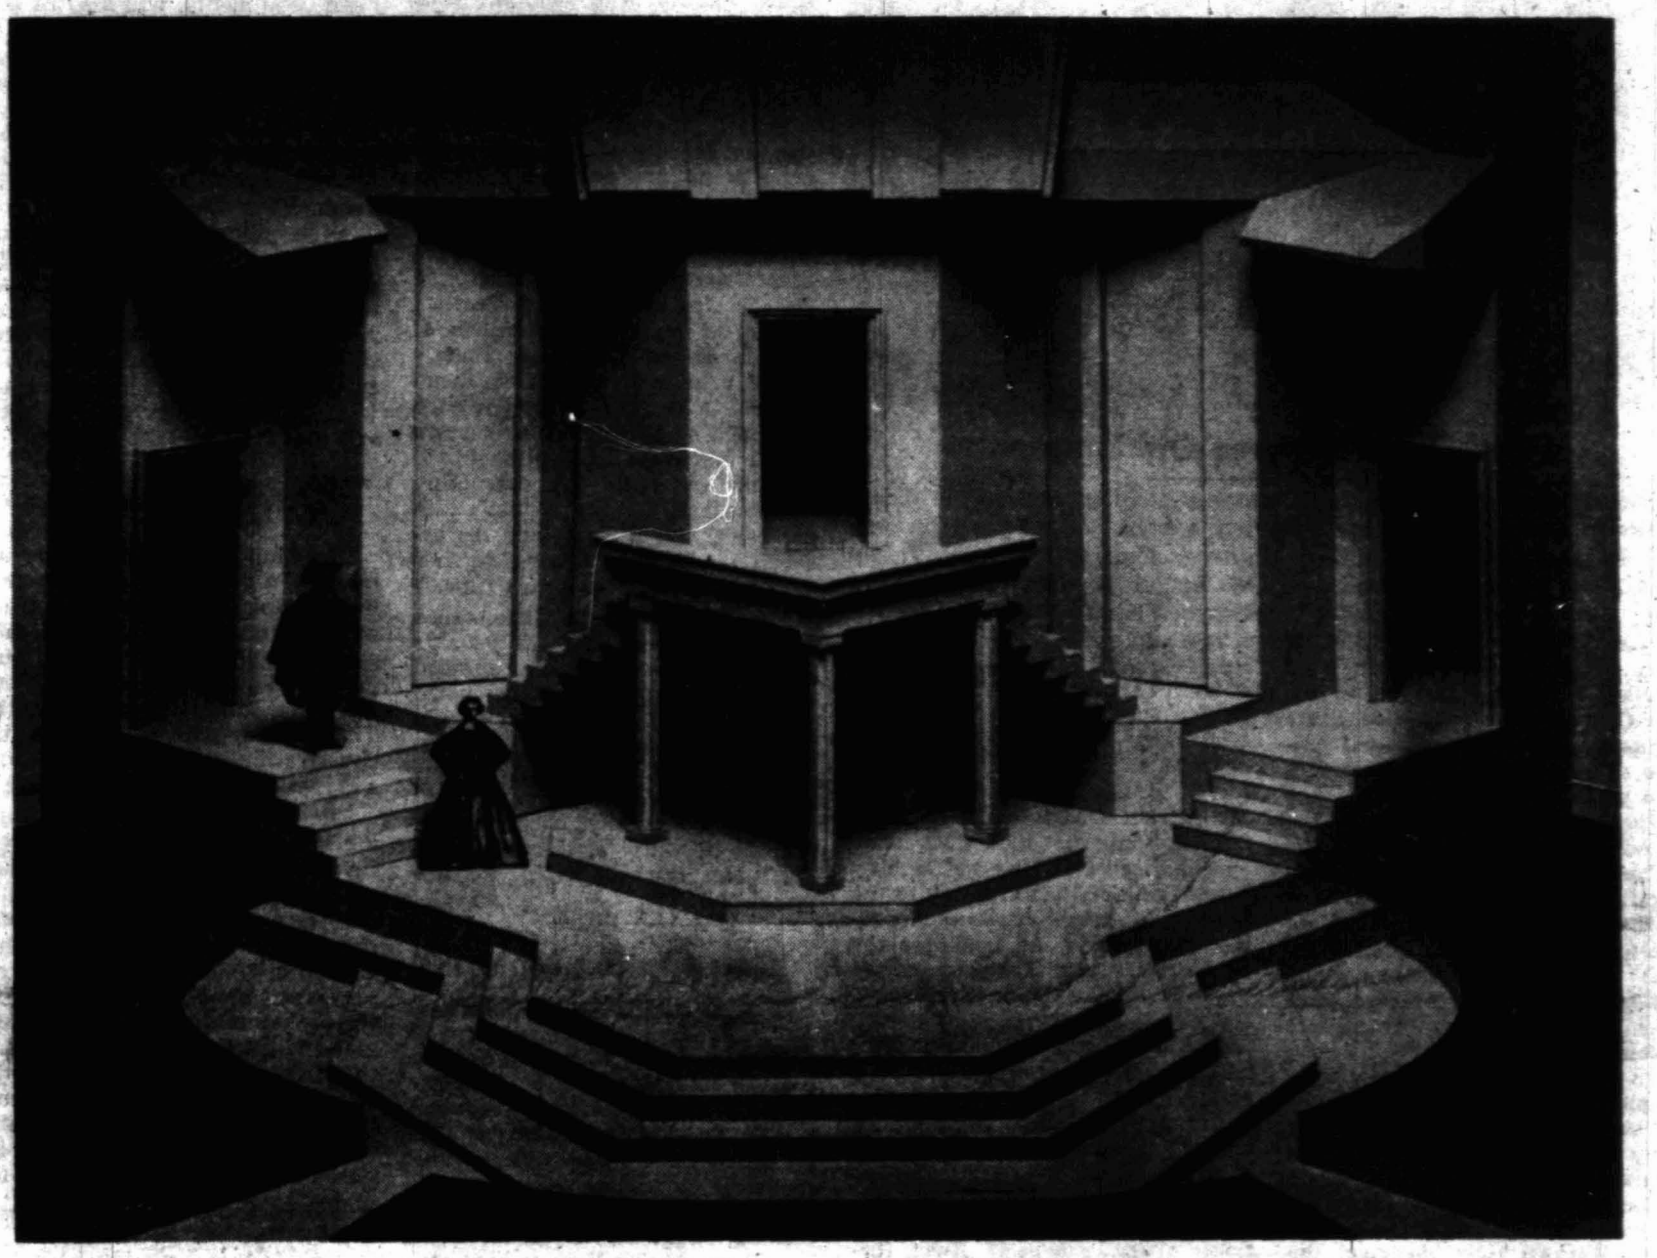
Yet we have come to expect from what we assumedly regard as one of our most valuable public resources—our willing and variously capable citizens—an increasingly loathsome, degrading and unavoidably insincere petitioning of our vote.

It is a fact that the vote has to be sought. It is also a devastating and disturbing fact that the voter is becoming more and more fatuous and by his very indifference compelling the candidate to entice, supplicate and enchant, with destructive energy.

The cycle is vicious and disgraceful. It delivers the campaign into the hands of the professional promoter, the financier, the party hack. It destroys the essential nobility of politics. It also destroys, occasionally, the candidate. Men give their lives for their country in various ways. We build them tombs, we honor them with medals, we inscribe their names upon memorials. But Glenn E. Coolidge, who gave his life as certainly as an armed warrior in conflict, will have no such justice, if that be the only justice within the powers of his fellow citizens to give. The king is dead, and already we tense our throats to shout, "long live the king!"

I would not have the office so dearly bought.

The intensity of effort which killed Glenn Coolidge becomes increasingly unbearable as the importance of the office ascends. It was frighteningly pointed out in the engrossing book, The Making of The President: 1960. It leads to the conclusion that not only is wealth, possessed or provided, a necessity, but the endurance and capacity of a Titan as well. The more this becomes so, the more valuable men will turn away from the grotesque obstacles to seeking and holding public office. The more such men turn away, the less selective shall be the nomination to office. And the less selective the nomination becomes, the less truly representative public office will be. It is enough of a sacrifice to serve. We cannot, in the conscientious regard for the precious instruments of representative government, allow our processes to deteriorate into a morbid, repellent and deadly circus.



TRAGIC DEATH OF GLENN COOLIDGE

Carmel residents were shocked yesterday by the news of the death of Assemblyman Glenn E. Coolidge of a heart attack in the early hours of the morning at his home in Santa Cruz. He was the Republican congressional candidate for the 12th Congressional District in the coming November election and had a host of loyal supporters here.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday in the First Congregational Church of Santa Cruz at 10:30 a.m. The Reverend Bernard Corneliussen will officiate.

Mr. Coolidge had served in the California Legislature for ten years. In the June primaries he had more votes in a predominantly Democratic district than all of his Democratic opponents combined, 41,789 to 40,920, and was expected by his party to carry the district in the November Congressional race.

He was a former chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. Mr. Coolidge had his efforts meet with success when the University of California decided to establish a campus in Santa Cruz, a goal he had striven to attain.

He was only opposed in a primary election in 1952, the first time he ran for the Assembly as the representative of Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. The next three times he ran he was elected in the primaries by virtue of win-

The Great Sand Castle Contest

The Great Sand Castling Contest is moving along. Sort of. A fine panel of discerning and incorruptible judges have volunteered. A most distinguished painter, of course: Mr. Donald Teague; a respected cartoonist, naturally, Mr. Gus Arriola (to judge the mock adobe entries); an architect, assuredly, to seek out the original and imaginative design—Mr. Will Shaw; and because it is anticipated that some awesome efforts to defy the laws of gravity may be essayed, a structural engineer — Mr. Steve Sassoon.

Now, suggestions have gone out to the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis, the Lions, the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department, the Youth Center, the Carmel Foundation, the Carmel Art Association, the schools and other civic groups to enter the spirit of the day with enthusiasm and tongue-in-cheek. It

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

A Festival Theatre For The Peninsula?

The classic function of the theater is to entertain. Since the days of the first formal theaters of the early Greeks, the classic problem of the theater has been to find a suitable place in which to do it.

Sir Tyrone Guthrie arrives on the Peninsula this evening to see if the ambitions of a local group to resolve both problems in a singular way are at all feasible. If he finds them so, the Peninsula may then—after a lot of other classic but less dramatic problems are resolved—find itself possessed of a most unusual auditorium seating perhaps 1,500 to 2,000 people, dedicated to the production of Shakespeare's plays but able imaginatively to present repertory theater, musical festivals, recitals, concerts, operettas and lectures.

It's an old and hungering dream of the Peninsula, this capable theater and it has been expressed in many ways. This prospect, perhaps as much for its ambition as for its uniqueness, may succeed in turning dream into substance.

THE BEGINNING

For more than two years Fred Rider, director of the Golden Bough Circle Theater and Nick Zanides, assistant director, have been quietly but not otherwise reticently, circulating a prospectus proposing an international festival theater for the Peninsula. They succeeded in attracting the attention to their project of such prominent Peninsulans as Dr. James Niebel, Howard Brunn, Warren Edwards, Gordon Hall, John Harrison, Rev. David Hill, Dr. Ernest Jaqua, Sam Karas, Leonard Klene and Mark Thomas who now constitute the committee for the festival theater.

This group sought the attention of Guthrie, frequently acknowledged to be today's greatest director on the English-speaking stage, and indisputably one of its most successful exponents. One time director of the old Vic and Sadler's Wells Theaters, director of the Stratford Festival Theater in Ontario, Canada, knighted in 1961 for his services to the theater, and a far-ranging man of enormous talents and energies, he is now actively engaged in seeing the completion of a project, the Tyrone Guthrie Theater of Minnesota, which bears many of the characteristics which the local committee espouse for the Peninsula.

The Minnesota adventure is a two million dollar proposition, a 1,400-seat theater featuring an "open" or platform stage which projects into the center of the auditorium where the seating is wrapped around three sides of the stage and steeply raked upwards. The impression—and the inspiration—of this type of theater lies not far from the early Greek

New Bank Features Old Carmel

Security National Bank of Monterey County, one of the oldest banks in California, will open its first branch Saturday at the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Highway One and Carmel Valley Road. The bank was founded in 1889 in Pacific Grove and is Monterey County's only remaining home-owned bank.

Last minute efforts by workmen are supervised, above, by William A. Burkett, president, and Stanley E. Ewig, manager, as the new Carmel office is readied. State Treasurer Bert A. Betts will preside at ribbon cutting ceremonies at 4 p.m.

The charm and warmth of the "good old days," including the white colonial decor of the bank's Pacific Grove office, has been used in the Carmel branch including roll-top desks, an old-fashioned wall telephone, red velvet and rosewood chairs, and tellers' windows separated by amber glass panels.

On the walls are numerous photographs of early Carmel, some dating back to the 1880s. A display of early California rifles and guns, including flintlocks and sixshooters, is located conveniently near the bank's vault.

Mr. Burkett, who designed the interior, said that the guns will not be used, however, for included in the $100,000 construction of the bank's exterior and interior will be one of the county's most modern burglar alarm and vault protection systems with automatic fire extinguishers throughout the bank.

The bank's unique banking hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays, and 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on Saturdays will be continued by the traditionally conservative bank, Mr. Burkett announced.

He is a great-grandson of John F. Williams, 1849 Monterey pioneer, and purchased controlling interest in the bank last year, since has restored Saturday banking to Monterey County. Mr. Burkett began his banking career in 1936 and served as Superintendent of Banks and Chairman of the Board of Investment, State of California, prior to becoming president of the bank.

Irvin Bussing, Ph.D. and former professor of banking, Columbia University, and A. O. Gates, former president and officer of the bank for 57 years, are associated with Mr. Burkett in the bank's reorganization. Only last month its name was changed from the Security State Bank of Pacific Grove to the Security National Bank of Monterey County and the bank for the first time became a member of the Federal Reserve System, increased its capital by 121 per cent, elected new officers and announced plans for new offices throughout the county.

Recently, Stanley E. Ewig of Carmel was named manager of the Carmel branch. Mr. Ewig was associated with his father, Edwin H. Ewig, with the Bank of Carmel for many years. Edwin H. Ewig, former vice president and member of the board of directors of the Bank of Carmel, was recently named a director of the Security National Bank of Monterey County.

The new manager has lived in Carmel since the age of two and is a graduate of Sunset School, Carmel High School and the New York Institute of Finance. He is treasurer of the Monterey County branch of the American Cancer Society and the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Burkett, interviewed during a pre-opening inspection of the Carmel branch, stated that the old - fashioned business principle that "the customer is always right" has been paying big dividends to his bank.

"We give the banking hours that our customers request of us. The bank's staying open on Saturdays enables men to do the family banking and this alone has doubled our number of customers in the last six months," Burkett said.

"Our customers tell their friends and their friends in turn bring more customers. It is this formula," Burkett said, "that is proving to us that a small home-owned bank can compete successfully with today's large chain banks."

Over the past six months the total number of customers has doubled, forcing the bank to end the use of hand-posted "Boston ledgers" and to purchase new electronic bookkeeping machines. The bank's increased activity has more than doubled the bank's personnel, but Mr. Burkett said that he refuses to relegate the customers to being a mere "number" in the files. "Here," Burkett said, "you are a name instead of a number, your balance and statement of account are readily at hand, and it is not necessary to telephone another city to get the answers."

Burkett seemed unconcerned by the vast amount of national publicity that his bank stirred in banking circles. During the past year over 300 daily newspapers and banking journals have carried wire photos and news stories about the Pacific Grove bank. Mr. Burkett smiled as he said, "Regardless of how large we grow, our Pacific Grove bank will remain the head office." After the Carmel branch is opened he said that construction of the Marina office will begin.

While old ideas are attracting new business for the county's oldest bank, Mr. Burkett and his associates would not divulge further plans for expansion at this time.

Mr. Burkett said that the bank's rapid expansion after 73 years proves that independent - minded people will support a home-owned bank, provided that "service is more than a slogan, more than an advertisement, but is actual performance done promptly and efficiently in a courteous, friendly manner. If this is old-fashioned banking," Mr. Burkett said, "we are proud of it."

Constitution Month Observance Program

By an act of Congress the week commencing Sunday, 16 September, is Constitution Observance Week. The Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove Masonic lodges are sponsoring a purposeful and significant observance of the event next Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Pacific Grove Junior High School auditorium on Forest Avenue.

Rear Admiral Marshall E. Dornin, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, will be the principal speaker. The master of ceremonies will be Judge Eugene Harrah of the Monterey - Carmel Municipal Court. Entertainment will be provided by the Pacific Grove High School band, and refreshments will be served.

People To People Program At MPC

The first step in the new Monterey Peninsula College People To People program for international students will be taken Sunday, according to Miss Rosabelle Hamann, foreign student advisor.

That afternoon, some 25 newly-arrived foreign students will gather at Miss Hamann's Monterey home to meet the nucleus of a group of American students who have volunteered for the program. Dr. Frederick R. Huber, MPC president, and Dr. Ralph B. Smith, dean of students, will also be present.

Inspired by the Hallmark Foundation Peope To People program, and sparked by Frank Conway, a representative from San Francisco State College, the MPC program is a "two-way street," says Miss Hamann.

"Not only will it help international students to learn about the community and country they are visiting, but it will enable our American students ,through friendship with people from all countries, to learn something about the world. I don't know who will benefit most."

Wayfarer Lectures

The Church of the Wayfarer announces a second series of lectures by Dr. Ronald Menmuir, professor of philosophy at Monterey Peninsula College, to be given each Sunday morning beginning 16 September and continuing for two months. The lectures, to be held in the church's Fellowship Hall at 9:15 a.m., will be open to the public.

The new series is entitled Making Sense of Christian Mythology. Dr. Menmuir will hold the position that certain interpretations of Christian mythology have become obsolete and that we must either discard the old myths or re-interpret them in such a way that convinces the mind of their essential reasonableness yet without loss of their distinctive religious validity. This, he says, will involve a penetration beyond their literal form to their essential and eternal insights which can be meaningful for modern man.

Included in the list of topics to be discussed are: Is Spirit Real? Can a Myth Be True? Is Original Sin Out of Date? Is it Reasonable to Think of God in Personal Terms? Is It Pure Egotism to Think of Man as the Image of God? Is Incarnation Nonsense? Does Modern Science Make Nonsense Out of Revelation?

YOUTH CENTER DRIVE

Over $4,000 has been received to support the Carmel Youth Center as a result of the current fund drive, according to Jack Giles, resident director of activities at the teenage recreation center.

He emphasized that those who have not yet responded to the community appeal still may mail donations to Box 2399, Carmel.

Last Friday night more than 500 persons attended the open house party for the community at the center. Over the week end members sold food at the Pebble Beach Three-Day Trials from the center's food trailers. Profits from this activity will also support center activities.

SUCCESSOR TO COOLIDGE

Republicans within the 12th Congressional District have until 27 September to nominate a candidate for the vacancy created by the death this week of Glenn E. Coolidge, and have the new candidate's name appear on the November ballot, according to Monterey County Clerk Emmet McMenamin.

Procedure for choosing a new candidate, he explains, will be as follows: Republican state central committeemen of the district (Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties), and county central committeemen will meet, either separately or jointly, and nominate a replacement for Mr. Coolidge.

Following the nomination of the new candidate, a form and fee of $225 must be filed with the clerk of the county wherein the new candidate is selected.

Next, the county clerk will send the nomination to the Secretary of State in Sacramento before 27 September, deadline for names to appear on the November ballot.

However, if for some reason the committeemen fail to nominate a new candidate in time for the county clerk to send their nomination to meet the Sacramento deadline, the committeemen may file directly with the Secretary of State, Mr. McMenamin points out.

Community Chest Campaign

A week from today, 20 September, the 1962 Monterey Peninsula Community Chest Campaign will begin. Mrs. Robert E. Newton of Carmel, this year's Chest president, appeals to all Carmel residents to respond to the mail campaign as promptly as possible so that it will not be necessary for solicitors to make follow-up visits. Residents, inadvertently missed by both the mail appeal and solicitors, may send donations to Community Chest, 424 Jefferson Street, Monterey, Mrs. Newton says.

Kurt Koebig is chairman for solicitation of $9,000 in the Carmel business district. Mrs. John D. Campbell will cover a section of the residential area, which has a $25,000 quota to fill.

Community Chest agencies include the Carmel Well Baby Clinic, Alcoholism Council, Boy and Girl Scouts, Family Service, Transient and Travelers' Aid, U.S.O., United Seaman's Service, and the Visiting Nurse Association.

Letter To The Editor . . .

SAND CASTLES

Dear Sir:

I just came in . . . from sitting in the sun after the leisure of a cup of coffee, and a moment of reflection — and in that reflection I pictured the beach of Carmel, covered with sand castles, and happy people, and felt the need of thanking you (for the stories of) . . . the fog, the fire, the plantings, the uncommon happenings of mind and heart and people and Carmel. It makes me dreadfully homesick, for I have felt more kinship for Carmel and the surrounding country than anywhere on earth. And it also formed a resolution to return.

Now that it is no longer necessary to stay in the Northwest, perhaps we can build on our lot and help build these sand castles in a dream come true. Thank you for your editorials—your pictures and your imagination.

Symphony Programs, Soloists Announced

The most artistically ambitious and interesting season to date has been promised by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra for its 1962-63 concert series. The series will begin 22 October in Salinas and 23 October in Carmel.

In addition to a repertoire of unusual scope, the symphony will also present such internationally noted performers as violinist David Abel, and pianist Jean Casadesus. Also on the roster of soloists will be such outstanding local musicians as organist Myron MacTavish, and Kathryn Thompson, flute, both of Salinas, as well as the Hartnell Community Chorus.

Directing the orchestra again this season will be conductor John Gosling, who earned well deserved laurels for his achievements last year.

The season's highlights will include Brahms' Symphony No. 2, Debussy's Afternoon of a Faun, Haydn's Symphony No. 104, Brahms' Violin Concerto (David Abel), Mozart's Overture to the Marriage of Figaro, Ravel's Le Tambeau de Couperin, Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 5 (Jean Casadesus), Saint-Saen's Symphony No. 3 (Myron MacTavish), and Honneger's King David featuring the Hartnell Community Chorus, with soloists to be announced. Also scheduled will be works by the two winners of last season's Composers Award Contest, Symphonic Overture by Edward Applebaum, and Music for Orchestra by Morris Haigh.

Although season tickets have been selling rapidly, Symphony officials state that there are still excellent locations available in all price ranges. There will also be a special season ticket available to students, college age and younger. For further information write Monterey County Symphony Association, Box 3851, Carmel, or telephone MA 4-4125.

Days Before Yesterday

By M. L.

Forty-five years ago today, property owners were informed in the 13 September, 1917, issue of the Pine Cone that the first municipal taxes levied by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea would amount to $1.00 per $100 valuation.

It was a matter of pride to the board of trustees that Carmel's municipal tax was lower than those set by Pacific Grove ($1.17) and Monterey ($1.50). Both Carmel and Pacific Grove were "dry" towns; Monterey was "wet."

The board of trustees which levied Carmel's first tax was composed of A. P. Fraser, president, and trustees G. F. Beardsley, Peter Taylor, D. W. W. Johnson and Eva K. de Sabla. None of them were absent when the urgency tax ordinance was passed. J. E. Nichols was the city clerk.

The assessment roll presented by Mr. Nichols, who was also city assessor, gave the total value of real estate within the city limits as $381,605.

President Fraser remarked following the passage of the ordinance, "The time has come to plan and execute street improvements. There are 15 miles of roadway in the city and not one foot is improved."

The board of trustees decided to get to work on the matter immediately. They also decided to take out compensation insurance for city employes; but the garbage ordinance was laid over for further consideration. A cart and reel for the recently acquired city fire hose was approved. Municipal bills for the previous month amounted to $218.60.

Carmel's first trustees met in a building at the northwest corner of Dolores and Ocean.

There were school problems in Carmel in September, 1917. School trustees were considering a bond election to provide funds to enlarge Sunset School because "the classrooms are overcrowded and the teachers are overworked."

Perry Newberry had just left to live "indefinitely" in San Francisco. "Politics at Carmel Highlands will be without a leader," commented the Pine Cone's editor, William L. Overstreet.

The Pacific Improvement Company (Del Monte Properties, Inc.) promised to have ready early in 1918 "the best and most beautiful golf course in the world." The proximity to Carmel of this course (Pebble Beach) "should keep the town crowded the year round" was the editorial comment on this matter.

There was a motor stage which ran from Carmel Highlands three times a day, returned twice. Artist George Bellows was spending four months in Carmel in the Cooke house on Thirteenth.

The Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross was one of the most active organizations in town for the United States was at war. The sum of $661.86 was raised in August by public entertainments for World War I work, a 13 September report stated. The events included a program by the Campfire Girls, the Schweninger Dance, a garden fete, a concert at the Manzanita Hall, a poster dance, a lecture, a concert by Frederick Preston Search, and programs by the Star Theatre Club and a performance of Green Stockings at the Arts and Crafts Hall.

Forty-five years ago tonight, the Carmel Summer School of Music gave its last concert of the season and it was free to the public. Artists on the program were Frances Martin, pianist, and Frances C. Pudan, soprano, accompanied by Mabel Gray Young.

The Carmel Summer School of Art had just closed with an exhibition of students' work. On the last day of the show 40 "soldierettes" came from their camp at Asilomar to a reception after visiting artists' studios in Carmel. The school was held in the Arts and Crafts Hall.

This hall was also the setting for "frequent hops justly popular with the dancing set," and the literary section was expected to resume reading circles 'as the evenings lengthen with the approach of Autumn," the Pine Cone reported.

Lastly, Carmel had no flagpole, and no flag. Editor Overstreet wrote in the 13 September, 1917, issue, "Carmel once had these things. We should have them now. Every man, woman and child should contribute. About $50 is needed quickly."

The Pine Cone undertook to receive and acknowledge donations.

theater whose orkestra, skena proskena and auditorium provided the root elements from which have evolved the Roman theater, the renaisance theater, the opera house, the Elizabethan theater, the German theater and the most recent sophisticated attempts at multi-purpose compromises.

THE PENINSULA POSSIBILITY

Precisely what form, if any, a festival theater may take on the Peninsula, says an earnest and quietly persistent Rider, depends primarily on the results of Guthrie's two days of inspections, interviews and consultations.

"There are a number of wrong ideas about this project circulating," he says. "No plans are in anyway solid, and won't be until after Mr. Guthrie's been here. The whole quest for other uses of the theater is open, too. We aren't even certain that we will propose the building of a new auditorium."

By this Rider means that an old cannery might be remodelled, the theater operated in the open air, or within a tent. The tent looms understandably large in much of his thinking. The Stratford Festival in Ontario played four seasons under a mammoth tent, before a structure could be built over the stage and seats. Tents have remarkably superior accoustics and they seem to answer a lot of other considerations. But they also pose yet others uniquely their own: rain, for instance, drumming down, can absolutely smother the sound of actors' voices, and the rather more delicate problem of ventilating a space crowded with perhaps 2,000 bodies is completely baffling. But a theater, to Rider's carefully evaluating way of thinking, is not perhaps the first and most imperative need. Financing, of course, and a well-based conviction that an area as vast as the western states will support the institution, are requisites of obvious necessity. Less apparent but even more essential, it seems, is the need for a top calibre artistic director. "I mean of the Guthrie-Olivier calibre," peremptorily says Rider, concluding with a note of hopeless recognition "and there aren't too many of those." Two, to be precise, Guthrie and Olivier.

No one should mistake the proportions of this undertaking; they are imposing. Acres of land for plant and parking, a major theater structure, an expensive staff. It could be another $2,000,000 Minnesota proposition.

But the festival theaters—Stratford, Ontario and Stratford, Connecticut—have been prodigiously successful. The Stratford, Connecticut festival, a complex of Shakespeare, instrumental music and operettas, runs for a fourteen-weeks season and grosses between $750,000 and $900,000, which vividly points out that this is not little theater.

THE STUFF OF DREAMS

This is, in fact, very big theater, of a magnitude and stature to awe the imagination. But anything less, anything not able to employ the talents of an Olivier, were he available as an artistic director, simply would be ineffective. The prominence the local festival committee has in mind is of national and perhaps international degree, not home town. One thing they have going for them at the outset: the world-wide reputation of Carmel, though Carmel may not be the site eventually chosen. If it is not, it would seem then that reasons other than location must prevail. For, with the distinguished Bach Festival to lend its baroque music as companion to baroque theater, the magic formula for success could be enticingly at hand. Some modern theater at other times, (Wilder and Brecht adapt well to the platform stage,) lectures, recitals and concerts added to this imposing combination could well command what must, according to Rider be commanded: multi-state attendance and support.

When Sir Tyrone Guthrie flys out Sunday morning, returning to Minnesota after a round of conferences, luncheons and cocktail parties, it is not altogether impossible that enough materiality will have been injected into the tender frame to make the festival committee's midsummer night's dream a palpable and exceedingly attractive wraith.

is hoped, most of all, that families — father and son, mother and daughter, mother-in-law and next door neighbor, grandfather and nephew's girl friend—will resolve to come down to our beach, for our own particularly informal day, to build a castle. On Sunday, 23 September. Maybe about noon time, when the tide is nearing a low point; when maybe the sun will be shining and the Fog (#%@ '&—!!) will be doing something else besides hanging around here. And bring a lunch. The judges are a hungry lot.

But then, the whole thing may not be possible. Will Shaw mournfully observed last week that the zoning and building laws may wreck everything.

"For instance," he said, "there are building permits. And setbacks. What about landscaping spaces? And zoning? It's an R-1 single family zone down there, isn't it? Well, what if I want to build a gas station? Or an apartment? How about density of population? An architect has to think about these things, you know."

We think that the planning commission and the city council may not get around to the problem of use permits and variances before the next tide comes in and wipes out the whole show. But building inspectors Floyd Adams and Glenn Kearns, a naturally suspicious pair, will, it may be assumed, be on the lookout for neon signs, double kitchens, and moats of illegal depth. And watch those unlicensed banners flying from over-height towers. And make sure that the dungeons are properly ventilated.

Oh, well!

Prizes, the only formal recognition, are in order. Next week's issue of the Pine Cone will carry a list of the prizes offered, and some suggested classes of entry.

In the meantime, work up a party, get the kids and the family together. And go to San Francisco for the week end.

Morses Europe Bound

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse of Pebble Beach leave San Francisco by air on Sunday for a fortnight's stay in Paris, after which they will spend a few days in Rome before boarding their yacht, the Vileehi, in Civitavecchia for a cruise along the Italian and French Rivieras. From Cannes they will take a motor tour back to Paris, and expect to return to San Francisco via air at the end of October.

ning both the Republican and Democratic nominations under the cross-filing system. In 1960, with cross-filing abolished, he had no opponent in the primary. Democratic write-in votes gave him the nomination of that party as well. Thus he became the only Republican legislator in the state to win election in the primary that year.

Following reapportionment of the state last year, Santa Cruz County was combined with Monterey County in a new Assembly district. Rather than run against Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee (R) of this county, Mr. Coolidge decided to enter the Congressional race as a representative of the new 12th Congressional District which combines Santa Cruz, Monterey, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties.

He actively campaigned all over the district for election as a Congressman until the time of his death. Tuesday evening he spoke at the Masonic Lodge in Salinas, then drove home, arriving at midnight. Four hours later his body was discovered on the floor of a bathroom by his wife, Margaret.

In addition to Mrs. Coolidge, he is survived by three sons, David, John and Henry, also a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Burkett, all of Santa Cruz.

Republican party members in this district have until 27 September to nominate a successor to Mr. Coolidge in the November Congressional election. (See "Politics.")

Valley Theatre Training Center

The Theatre Training Center, founded last Spring as an expansion of the White Oaks Theatre's operation in the cultural development of the community and the training of individuals in the performing arts, is about to begin its winter session of classes. Training and performance experience for young people and adults will be offered in three fields—dance, acting, and creative dramatics.

Of special interest to adults should be a class in period styles and period movement covering the classical, Elizabethan, Restoration, and Victorian periods. Also in the acting field there will be a beginning acting class for young people aged 11-14, and two workshops — for beginners and advanced. These classes will be conducted by Eleanor Stoltz, Shirley Eoff, and Gale Peterson. Mr. Peterson, who just recently completed a guest teaching position with the Peninsula Ballet Center's seminar program, will be holding beginning and advanced classes in contemporary dance (jazz and ballet). The creative dramatics division for ages 5-10 will be under the direction of Shirley Eoff, recognized as outstanding in this field.

All the classes and workshops will be conducted in the barn theatre which is being re-roofed and weather-proofed for the winter — a necessity readily perceived by those who viewed this last summer's productions.

Registration for any of the courses offered will be from 15 September through 22 September at White Oaks Theatre, 1-5 p.m. daily, with classes beginning on 24 September. A detailed description of the courses offered for the first twelve-week session, together with schedules and rates are available upon request.

Music Society Ticket Deadline

Season ticket holders of the Carmel Music Society must renew their subscriptions by Saturday if they wish to retain the same seats as last year, Mrs. Jay F. Chappell, ticket chairman, announced today.

Mrs. Chappell said that there had been about 350 renewals so far, but that a large number of past subscribers have not yet reserved their seats.

Renewals and other new subscriptions should be mailed to the Society at P. O. Box 1144, Carmel, or may be entered at the box office, Graham Music Company, Mission Street near Sixth, Carmel.

After Saturday, seats will be assigned according to the dates requests are received. Season tickets are $15.00, $12.50, and $10.00, according to location.

At the same time, Mrs. Rhea Diveley, president of the society, announced appointment of committee chairmen for the 1962-63 season. They are: Betty Chappell, membership and tickets; Harvey Marshall, booking; Mimi Klene, reception, hospitality, and transportation; John Craige, stage and house; Leo Abinante, finance; Irene Graham, piano; Marjorie Wurzmann, ushers; Kenneth Ehrman, publicity; Mast Wolfson, nominating; and Fritz Wurzmann, printing.

New AFA Chairman

Dr. W. M. Fitzhugh, Jr., art collector and a member of the board of directors of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts, is the new chairman of local exhibits for the organization.

Among the 12 exhibits planned for the coming year is the Achenbach Collection of drawings by the English artist and caricaturist, Thomas Rowlandson (1756 - 1827), who captured the spirit of his era in witty, sardonic sketches.

Dr. Fitzhugh will also hang the AFA shows and be assisted in selection of all exhibits by R. Nelson and Leonard Heller.

Lee Crowe Directs Tantamount Plays

The Zoo Story and The Sandbox, two plays by Edward Albee—America's most talked about young playwright—are scheduled to open the fall season of The Actors' Company at the Tantamount Theatre in Carmel Valley. The first of six performances is set for 21 September.

The two plays are bold dramatic works recommended for an audience not easily shocked. Critical reception, both in the United States and abroad, firmly established Albee as a new playwright of humorous compassion and considerable power. Zoo Story is currently being performed off-Broadway, and New York anticipates his Broadway debut in October with his latest work Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

Lee Crowe returns to the Peninsula theatre scene to direct both plays after a period of self-imposed retirement and travel. He is excited to be "on the boards" again, directing two strong examples of today's trend which reflects a change in dramatic concept and structure, and is dependent on humor quickly contrasted with satire and tragedy.

The Sandbox, the shorter of the two plays, will be performed by Jacklyn Cornelius, Betty Fowlston, Jon Baldwin and Francois Martin. Larry Hearn, young Valley flautist, will be The Musician.

The Zoo Story is confined to a cast of two actors, Gene Cornelius and John Ralph Geddis.

In Local Galleries

Until the end of this month, 28 paintings by Beulah Kosty of Carmel will be exhibited in the main gallery of the Artists Guild of America and a group show of oils by 23 painters will be displayed on the mezzanine gallery.

Artists who have work in the mezzanine show are Paul Lauritz, Nell Walker Warner, Bennett Bradbury, Patricia Cunningham, R. Brownell McGraw, Frank Hamilton, Bill Hampton, Edward Norton Ward, Helen Dooley, Sigismund Wolf, Virginia Lynn, Eric Warnick, Rupert Leach, Louisa Jenkins, Jeannette Bedwell, James Peter Cost, Barbara West, Robert Barlow, Janyce Fagotti, Maybelle Toombs, Florence Lockwood, Winifred Koch, and Elmer Enquist.

Beulah Kosty's one-man show includes pictures of France, Belgium, England, Point Lobos, San Francisco, floral and portrait studies, also still lifes.

The artist studied first with William Lylie at the Art Center in Chelsea, London. World War I interrupted her studies, but after marriage to an American, Beulah Kosty came to live on the West Coast and resumed painting at the Student Art League, the College of Arts and Crafts, and Mills College. Ten years ago she settled in Carmel.

Beulah Kosty has exhibited her work at the Palace of the Legion of Honor and the M. H. de Young Museum in San Francisco, and many West Coast cities. She was represented in Art U. S. A. '58 in New York City; this year in the Annual Invitational Show at the San Francisco Palace of the Legion of Honor. Recently Beulah Kosty had a one-man show at the Crocker Gallery in Sacramento. She has won numerous prizes and awards and is a member of the Society of Western Artists and San Francisco Women Artists groups.

Herron Show

Since the first of the month, an exhibit of textiles and costumes belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Herron of Carmel has been on display at the local American Federation of Arts headquarters on Lincoln Street.

This show includes linens from Russia, heirlooms in Mrs. Herron's family, also old, elaborately embroidered costumes. Among the latter are a Hungarian hussar's uniform and children's clothing.

Mrs. Herron, who embroiders the clothing for her shop in the Seven Arts Court, one of Carmel's most artistic and older projects, is a connoisseuse of fine textiles and fabric decoration as well as being an outstanding exponent of the art of stitchery.

Students Exhibit At State Fair

Four students of John Cunningham, director of the Carmel Art Institute, had paintings displayed in the recent art show at the California State Fair.

Work by Shirley Bridler of Seaside, George Greenfield of Monterey, Nancy Lissaman of Carmel Valley and Joan Johnson of London, Ontario, Canada, was entered in the college, university and private art school competition. Shirley Bridler captured third place with a portrait and the four local students were the largest representation in the exhibition from any private art school in the state.

Mr. Cunningham entered a study of Point Lobos in the professional art section and was the only painter to represent the Peninsula in this classification. Jeannette Maxfield Lewis of Pebble Beach was the only exhibitor in the print section and won an honorable mention. Brett Weston had four black and white prints in the photography section of the state show.

Local craftsmen whose work was exhibited at the State Fair were Russ Brown and Helen Beecher. Brown won first place for weaving of upholstery fabric, showed clothing and drapery fabric also. Helen Beecher's weaving was included in the drapery and stitchery weaving sections.

Sole Peninsula sculptor with work in the Sacramento show was Dorothy Miller of Pacific Grove.

Entries in the California State Fair Art Show came from all parts of the United States, as well as from Mexico and Canada, and dominated the work on exhibition.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

A great story of a great woman is the book To Light A Candle by Welthy Honsinger Fisher. This is the autobiographical story of the founding of Literacy Village in India. Born in 1880, Welthy Fisher is still working for the underprivileged people by training teachers who go out to all parts of India bearing the priceless gift of learning. Her book takes its title from the old saying, "It is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness."

A change from the political books about Russia is a collection of Russian short stories entitled Stories From Modern Russia, edited by C. P. Snow. People who go to the Soviet Union come home with observations about how human the Russians are, just like Americans in so many ways. Perhaps more fiction from and about the Russians will make this likeness clearer.

Back to the flamboyant days of San Francisco at the turn of this century, and we find the story of Abe Rouf and his era of graft. The book was written by Lately Thomas, and is entitled A Debonair Scoundrel. It is illustrated with pictures of Good Old Abe and his handle-bar mustaches. The author is the one who wrote the story of Amy Semple McPherson which was called The Vanishing Evangelist. Remember that one? It was very popular here for various reasons.

Edmund Wilson, whose list of published books grows longer and longer, has a new one just out which is entitled Patriotic Gore. These are the writings and the utterances of 30 men and women who lived through the Civil War. There is a vitality to this approach because it relates so personally to the reactions and experiences of the people involved.

We step naturally from this book to another on a related subject, the story of the slave trade during the years when it flourished from the 15th to the middle of the 19th centuries. The book is called Black Mother and it was written by Basil Davidson, who has done several previous books on Africa and its peoples. Well illustrated and well indexed, this book gives a background for many of the problems of present day Africa.

Three of the annuals published by Homemakers Magazines are Garden Ideas For 1962, and Kitchen Ideas For 1962, and Gardening and Outdoor Living, 1962. The first two were issued by Better Homes and Gardens and the last by House and Garden. All three are full of color pictures and are guaranteed to start you redoing your gardens and your kitchens, provided you can afford the last named activity. That one isn't easy!

There will be a spate of new novels this week, too, some of them no better than they should be, but adequate for late summer diversion.

Steinbeck Settings In Local Film

A short color film produced by two Carmel Valley men will be shown at the Hill Theatre next week with Harold Lloyd's Wonderful World of Comedy.

Literature in America: The Short Story is the title of the motion picture made by George Jennings and Frank Grover for distribution to schools and libraries as a product of Grove-Jennings Productions, Inc., the name of their educational film production company. Dr. Delmer Rodabaugh, professor of English at Long Beach State College, assisted with the production of this short.

The 20-minute film was made a year ago and released in May. It has sequences of the Catskill Mountains in New England, New York City, Stanford University, Pacific Grove and Monterey libraries, Cannery Row, the Salinas Valley, and the entrance of Palo Colorado Canyon south of Carmel.

The Monterey County shots were chosen to illustrate John Steinbeck's short stories. The downcoast pictures represent the country described in his story, Flight.

The Grove-Jennings film is a pictorial presentation of the contemporaneous development of the short story and magazines in the United States.

Jennings, in respect to the latter, remarked this week that he searched almost unsuccessfully for unbound copies of late 19th and early 20th century magazines until he discovered Pacific Grove Library. In the basement were numbers of unbound magazines of the period, and these were used in the filming of the picture by the two Valley men.

AUDUBON SOCIETY FILM

An unusual film of scenes along our shore will be shown at the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society meeting tomorrow evening. The pictures were taken by Judson Vandevere, summer naturalist at Point Lobos State Park. The meeting will be held in the music room of Carmel High School at 8 p.m. Captain Elgin B. Hurlbert, president of the society, will preside. Interested persons are invited to attend.

CHURCH IN THE ROUND

Carmel's newest church group, the Church in the Round, will install its minister, the Reverend Karel V. Vit, at special rites planned for 8 p.m. Sunday in the Cypress Club, Lincoln and Seventh. A reception will follow.

The Bohemian-born clergyman, a resident of the Peninsula for the past 12 years and a popular lecturer on international affairs, will also be marking his 30th year in the ministry Sunday. He was ordained in the autumn of 1932 in the Czech Liberal Church after graduating from Hus Theological Faculty in Prague.

He has also studied at the Theological School of the Czech Church, where he received a B.D. degree, the University of London, the University of Copenhagen, and at Starr King School for the Ministry (Unitarian) Berkeley.

On the Peninsula he has been a lecturer at the Institute of Foreign Studies, a Great Books discussion leader at Monterey Peninsula College where he has also taught classes in comparative religion, and a member of the Czech faculty at the U.S. Army Language School in Monterey.

Reverend Vit, a casual, friendly person known to many both in and out of his congregation simply as "Karel," (pronounced in English as if it were "Karl"), was elected minister of the Church in the Round, a society of religious liberals, last April.

Officiating at the installation service will be Dr. John H. Lathrop of Berkeley, minister emeritus of the Church of the Savior (Unitarian), of Brooklyn, N. Y., and past president of the International Association for Religious Freedom of which the Carmel Church is an affiliated organization.

ALTAR SOCIETY

Mrs. S. Hasket Derby and Miss Kathleen Webster will entertain members of the Carmel Mission Altar Society at a tea this afternoon at their home on Scenic Drive.

Reverend R. J. Dieudonne, who visited the Orient this summer, will speak on Hong Kong And You. Mrs. John Francis Doud is program chairman for the society's meetings this year.

CHILDREN'S ART CLASS

Children's art classes with Alex Gonzales as instructor will start Saturday at the American Federation of Arts headquarters on Lincoln Street. Boys and girls, 6-9 years old, are eligible for the ten-week course.

Mr. Gonzales, a local artist, also has taught at Monterey Peninsula College, most recently during the 1962 summer session. Further information may be obtained by telephoning MA 4-2918.

CHRISTMAS IN SEPTEMBER

At the Carmel Business Association's dinner meeting at La Playa Hotel this evening, members will come prepared to discuss two old but important questions:

"Shall we have uniformity as to night store openings prior to Christmas, or will we be individualists?"

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Women's Association of the Carmel Presbyterian Church will meet on Thursday in Fellowship Hall. The spiritual life group will meet at 11:30, and luncheon will be served by the Sheldon Jackson Circle at 12:00.

Following a short business meeting at 1:00, the program committee will present Miss Dorothy Foster, guest speaker. Miss Foster, a graduate of Knoxville College, Tennessee, represents the board of national missions on the western area women's work staff, with headquarters in San Francisco.

All members are invited to bring their husbands and guests. Baby-sitting will be provided.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The spiritual foundation of true peace and brotherhood will be set forth at Christian Science church services Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance."

Featured in the Bible selections are a number of passages from the Book of James, including these: "Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom . . . And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace."

The following will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 467): "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established."

LESLIE WINS AUTOCROSS

The autocross run off last weekend by the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club on the motor pool lot at the Presidio of Monterey concluded successfully as an exciting motoring event and as a charity effort. It produced $153 for the benefit of the Community Hospital and some flamboyant if not at all times precise driving.

Sixty-four cars were entered in the individual races against time over a tightly wound and deliberately relentless course. The autocross, because it is run within a relatively small compass which contains every maneuvering and control problem that can fault the over-extended driver, revealed once again that the reputations of such saluted Peninsula drivers as Ed Leslie, who won first overall in the event, and Don Wester were not indifferently gained. Following are the results for th first five places in each class:

Sport Cars

BY ED LESLIE

Ever drop an egg on the pavement? A similar picture comes to mind every time I see the youth of the peninsula driving happily by in their sports cars with fine, safe steel roll bars behind one or both seats! I hate to think of the result of even a mild rear-end accident and the accompanying whiplash effect on the occupant's head. I just have to bring up the fact that if you don't care to wear a non-resilient crash helmet while motoring, either take out the roll bar, or have a suitable pad installed for your noggin to crack against. Riding bareheaded in front of a roll-bar is asking for serious head injury!

I'm seriously in favor of roll bars, so is all America. They are even standard items of construction in some of the 1963 cars. But, either you pad it, conceal it in body work or the occupant must wear a helmet.

Roll bars save lives, lots of them. Remember the early airplanes, before the tricycle landing gears? They always had a little steel post in the center of the fuselage between the front and rear seats, just to give the pilot a bit of protection when the front wheels went into the mud and the old Jenny flipped over. The biggest earth-moving tractors on construction jobs have big steel bars to cover the operators. It is surprising just how small a bar will keep a vehicle rolling when they do tip over. It doesn't take much to send a car on over, sparing the driver injury. There have been a few accidents around here where big American convertibles, which are pretty hard to roll over, have gone over and over, and just the steel around the windshield has kept the car from stopping with it's bottom up.

One of the finest features of a sports car, and not a lot of "economy sedans", is to stay right side up. Chassis suspension is such that the axles are properly limited in their travel up and down, the shock absorbers are positive and act on both up and down movement, and the steering and sway bars are engineered for more lively use. Most sports cars can be turned violently sideways on dry pavement at good speeds and will merely spin flat and level until they stop. This is safety engineered into the car.

Nothing the engineer can do will engineer brains into an idiot driver, to keep him from sliding into a curbing, or soft sand, and causing his fine car to go over and over. True, he already has a fine car, a safe safety belt, properly mounted, few loose items of danger in the car, excellent safety or tempered glass, breakaway windscreens etc. But after all the effort, all the years of raising the driver to become the operator of this fine machine, you let him drive around with a roll bar three inches behind his head waiting like a trip hammer to be an instrument of death rather than a life saver!

Buy him a roll bar, this is a wonderful way to raise the odds in the event of an accident! But take it to your upholstery shop and have them fix a good padded cushion on it. Or, recognize the danger inherent in riding our highways, and wear the helmet! It isn't so silly, y'know. The motorcycle boys got wise and you seldom see one without the added protection anymore. It won't take more nerve to don your helmet than it did to wear your short trousers in public for the first time. It is now stylish and accepted for men to have leg muscles in the U. S., let's see if we can start a trend toward remaining alive in accidents!

FOOTBALL

As a result of watching the Carmel High School Varsity football team in scrimmage and talking with Coach Hadley Hicks, I can truthfully say that our team looks just great. Here is an interview which I had with Coach Hicks Monday morning.

Q: Who do you feel will be the biggest threat to our winning the league pennant this year?

A: King City will be pretty tough to beat. The St. Francis game will be pretty hard, but that is not a league game.

Q. Which do you feel is stronger, our offense or defense?

A: Our defense.

Q: Will the majority of our plays be pass plays or running plays?

A: Due to Danny Holman's throwing ability, we will be basing most of our plays on passes.

Q: Where do you feel our weak point is?

A: We need to improve in our line. Although we have some good working material, the blocking isn't all it could be.

Q: Although it is still pretty early in the season, who do you feel will be someone to watch?

A: Jim Kelly is looking pretty good. So is Grant Pollock and Dave Harris. We've got high hopes for all three of them. Danny Holman proved himself last year, and he is even better this year. John Thomas and Pete Conway are going to be valuable assets to the team, too.

Q: Who will be punting for us?

A: John Lefler and Danny Holman.

For your convenience, I have reprinted here a complete list of the games and game times.

The marriage of Miss Jane Estelle Smythe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Smythe of Paoli, Pennsylvania, to Wesley Theodore Brandhorst of Washington, D.C., son of Mrs. Wesley Theodore Brandhorst of Carmel, and the late Mr. Brandhorst, took place 1 September in the George Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. The Reverend John R. Hart officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white mantilla and a white faille gown. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

The bride's sister, Dr. Margaret Heinz, was matron of honor. Mr. Brandhorst's best man was James J. Dunlap of Washington, D.C. The bride's brother, John L. Smythe, served as usher.

A reception was held at her parents' home.

After a trip to Cape Cod, the couple will make their home in Washington, D.C.

Back To College Luncheon

Bakery boxes covered with wallpaper samples and filled with relishes, special sandwiches, fruit and cupcakes contained individual lunches for a group of back-to-college friends who met recently at the home of Diane Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shields of Hatton Fields.

The girls, Carmel High School graduates of 1961, included Pam Petersen, who will be going to the University of California at Davis (last year she attended the University of Colorado); Kit Duggan, Anne Craven, Carolee Hanson, Lynn Porter and Pat Dick, Monterey Peninsula College students; Julie Campbell, who will return to the University of Oregon for her sophomore year, and Mardi Lloyd, who will go back to California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo.

Unable to be present at the farewell gathering were Jeanie Roeder, a sophomore at Scripps College; Jane Tetley and Sally Campbell, University of California at Berkeley students; Karen Swanson, who attends Dominican College; and two other classmates of Diane's at the University of Oregon, Sally Goodman of San Diego and Linda Davis of Menlo Park.

Shower For Katie Corsaut

Mrs. Warren Masten (Vivian Davis) was hostess at a recent baby shower for Mrs. James Corsaut, the former Katy Fry, at the home of Mrs. Masten's mother-in-law, Mrs. Hildreth Hare. A pink and blue iced cake was served with tea and coffee and Katy was presented with a bouquet of pink roses and blue forget-me-nots. Part of the evening's entertainment was a game to invent an unusual name for the baby. According to Katy, "the results were hilarious."

Well-wishers at the party included Mrs. Marie Fry, Katy's mother; Mrs. Verna Davis, mother of the hostess; Mrs. Rick Masten, Mrs. Sheila Martin, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. Dan Yurkovich, Mrs. Edda Kaudy, Miss Ann Flynn and Miss Nellie Ryder.

Coming down the aisle of All Saints' Episcopal Church are Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin Davis, above, after their wedding on Saturday afternoon. The former Pamela Stevens Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knappen Perry of Carmel, became the bride of James Franklin Davis of Salem, Oregon in the 3:00 p.m. ceremony performed by the Reverend David Hill. White spider chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church altar.

Pamela, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie fashioned with a fitted bodice and V neckline trimmed with pearls and Alencon lace banding, with a front panel of the same lace and banding. Her fingertip English silk illusion veil was held by a lace cap in leaf design edged with seed pearls. Her bouquet of white roses and stephanotis was centered with butterfly orchids.

Sandy Fraser of Monterey was Pamela's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Nancy Alexander of Carmel Valley and Elizabeth Kibler of Carmel. Their dresses of American Beauty rose satin brocade had scoop necklines, long sleeves, and bell-shaped, side-draped skirts. They wore tulle caps of a rose design in a lighter shade, with circular veils, and carried sprays of pink garnet roses.

The bridegroom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vern Davis of Salem, asked his brother, Bruce, to be his best man. The ushers were Gerald Hargrove of Chico, and Raymond Crump of Saratoga.

Mrs. Perry attended her daughter's wedding in a celadon green peau de soie modified sheath with accessories of harvest colored brocade. A veiled, flowered hat matched her dress, and she wore a green cymbidium corsage.

The bridegroom's mother chose a champagne alpaca sheath with sherry lace bodice, matching shoes and a feathered hat. Her corsage was of beige cymbidiums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Shafter Way. A table covered with a point de Venise cloth held the three-tiered cake which was surrounded by stephanotis, ferns and gardenias, and flanked by silver candelabras.

Pamela pinned a white butterfly orchid corsage on her black and white tweed suit when she and her husband left for a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe. They will be at home in an apartment in Corvallis, Oregon, where both young people will study at Oregon State University.

The bride, a 1960 graduate of Carmel High School, attended the University of California at Riverside, and, last year, Monterey Peninsula College. Her husband graduated from South Salem High School, attended Oregon State University as a freshman, and Monterey Peninsula College for his sophomore year.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crabtree of Salem, the bridegroom's grandparents, were among the out of town guests who attended the wedding; also Stanley and Richard Davis of Salem, two other brothers of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Smith of Fremont, and Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Schermerhorn of Santa Cruz.

The School Board and The Override Tax

Last night the board of education, confronted with 1266 students to be transported in too few buses debated overworking limited equipment or purchasing a new 73-passenger bus. Eventually, they settled upon an irregular but attractive compromise for the time being. Though apprehensive about possible repair and lay-up costs, they accepted the offer of the Crown Coach Co. to rent to the district a 1948 "loaner" belonging to the company. It will cost about $1,700 for the remaining school year, add-to which will be the salary for a part-time driver and other incidentals which, probably, will run the total cost to about $4,000.

With the question of the 50c override tax, due to expire on 30 June, 1963, the board was a bit more wary, as if hopefully listening in the night for some public reaction. Reed and Heckenlaible, financial consultants, recommended not only a renewal but an additional 50c. Superintendent Stuart Mitchell has said that the addition is perhaps not needed, in view of the healthily expanded assessment roll. Mitchell's report implies a cautioning to the board that the choice is only one of how much and not one of whether it should seek continuance of the override. "Without a renewal," he says, "our educational program will have to be radically cut." The board asked for future budget projections, and study of possible election dates, but committed itself no further.

The board also adopted a resolution finding a "community of interest" between the district and the Palo Colorado School district, which is annexing to the Carmel district. But pending illumination of agreements by that district to give instruction to an overflow of students from the adjacent Captain Cooper district, and some perturbation over the financial feasibility of the arrangement, the board let the matter stand with the resolution.

Enrollment on opening day, 11 September, was reported as being 2482, compared with 2,431 last year.
